

CONVENTION ON INTERNATIONAL TRADE IN ENDANGERED SPECIES
OF WILD FAUNA AND FLORA

Fifty-eighth meeting of the Standing Committee
Geneva (Switzerland), 6-10 July 2009

MASTER'S DEGREE IN MANAGEMENT, ACCESS AND CONSERVATION OF SPECIES IN TRADE:
THE INTERNATIONAL FRAMEWORK

1. This document has been submitted by the Spain*.
2. A total of 32 people from the following 25 countries participated in the 8th edition of the Master's Degree Course and 4th edition of the Doctorate programme: Angola; Bahrain; Brazil; Cameroon; China; Colombia; Costa Rica; Ecuador; Ethiopia; Guatemala; Honduras; Jordan; Kenya; Kuwait; Mexico; Montenegro; Peru; Portugal; Saint Vincent and the Grenadines, Spain; Tanzania; Thailand; Uganda; Venezuela; and Zambia.
3. Spain financed the eighth edition of the programme through the contributions of the International University of Andalusia, Spain, and Fundación Carolina of the Spanish Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Cooperation. This funding provided participants with full or partial scholarships to follow the course.
4. Italy (SA for Plants), Mexico (SA), the Netherlands (SA), the United Kingdom (SA for Animals), and the United States of America (MA) cooperated with the eighth edition covering the travel costs of the lecturers they sent.
5. France provided full scholarships to 2 participants from Cameroon, the United States of America covered the travel costs of 1 participant from Zambia, and the enterprise Euromed provided a full scholarship to 1 participant from Tanzania.
6. The following authorities cooperated in the teaching of the Master's Degree Course and were involved in a very relevant way in the coordination and definition of several sections: the General Secretariat for Foreign Trade of the Spanish Ministry of Industry, Tourism and Trade (CITES Management Authority), and the General Directorate for the Natural Environment and Forest Policy of the Spanish Ministry of the Environment and Rural and Marine Affairs (CITES Scientific Authority).
7. The CITES Secretariat participated in the Master's programme with three staff members who gave lectures and whose payment and travel, accommodation and living expenses were covered by the programme.
8. The eighth edition of the Master's programme included lecturers from the following institutions: the CITES Scientific or Management Authorities of Argentina, China, Germany, Italy, Mexico, the Netherlands, Portugal, Spain, the United Kingdom, and the United States of America; the CITES Secretariat, the Universities of Cordoba, Greifswald, Palermo, Perugia, and Reading, the National Autonomous University of Mexico, Madrid Polytechnic University, and Rey Juan Carlos University; Frankfurt Zoo; Italian Wildlife Institute; Spanish Customs; National Germplasm Bank of Spain; Alexander Von Humboldt Institute of Colombia; Spanish Institute of Oceanography; Natural Sciences

9. In short, the Master's Degree Course has already been given eight times by the International University of Andalusia. In its last four editions, the course was linked to a Doctorate programme in collaboration with the University of Cordoba. In these eight editions, including the Master's Degree and Doctorate courses, quality specialised training was given to 209 individuals from 64 countries (Albania, Angola, Antigua and Barbuda, Argentina, Bahamas, Bahrain, Bolivia, Botswana, Brazil, Burundi, Cameroon, Chile, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominica, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Egypt, Equatorial Guinea, Ethiopia, Greece, Guatemala, Honduras, Hungary, India, Indonesia, Italy, Jordan, Kenya, Kuwait, Mexico, Montenegro, Mozambique, Namibia, Nepal, Nicaragua, Nigeria, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Portugal, Russian Federation, Saint Lucia, Saint Vincent and the Grenadines, Serbia, Slovakia, Slovenia, South Africa, Spain, Sri Lanka, Surinam, Tanzania, Thailand, Ukraine, Uganda, United States of America, Uruguay, Venezuela, Vietnam, Yemen, Zambia, and Zimbabwe).
10. The on-campus stage of the 9th edition of the Master's Degree Course on "Management, Access and Conservation of Species in Trade: the International Framework" will take place from 5th April to 25th June 2010 in the International University of Andalusia, Antonio Machado Site, in Baeza, Jaén, Spain (see details in the Annex).
11. Spain is fully convinced that the Programme is highly valuable to strengthen and consolidate the capacities of people in charge of the implementation of CITES.
12. Spain wishes to thank all the lecturers and participants in this Programme for their contributions, as well as the various Parties and institutions that provided scholarships or funded the participation of lecturers implementing Decision 14.10. For this reason, Parties, Institutions and Non-Governmental Organisations are invited once again to support the attendance of new participants for the next edition in 2010.

ANNEX

9th MASTER'S DEGREE IN MANAGEMENT, ACCESS AND CONSERVATION OF SPECIES IN TRADE:

THE INTERNATIONAL FRAMEWORK

Academic Director of the Programme:

Prof. Dr. Margarita África Clemente Muñoz, Full Professor, University of Cordoba, Spain

1. DATES AND ACADEMIC STRUCTURE

This programme of studies offers a total of 60 ECTS credits (equivalent to 1,500 hours): 48 for class attendance, study through the "virtual platform" and supervised work, and 12 for the preparation of the final Master's thesis. The course is structured as follows:

- A. Class Stage: (attendance required) in class sessions divided into twelve sections.
- B. Online Study Stage: through the virtual platform set up by the Universidad Internacional de Andalucía (UNIA), involving further work on the subject matter covered in the twelve class sections.
- C. Research Stage: (presence not required) in which students will perform research tasks in preparation for the Master's thesis.

On-campus credits: Classes will be held at the Antonio Machado Site of the International University of Andalusia from Monday to Friday, in morning and afternoon sessions. Monitoring and assessment will consist of weekly individual and/or group tests on the contents covered. The UNIA virtual platform will provide further learning experience and diverse practical activities on the course content.

Research period: 12 credits will be given for supervised research activities leading to the presentation of a research project.

2. OBJECTIVES OF THE ACADEMIC PROGRAMME

The General Objective of the programme is to provide specialised high quality training in the scientific bases, techniques and instruments that make it possible to implement and develop of two multilateral environmental agreements (MEAs): the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES) and the Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD).

It is appropriate for people who are involved or wish to become involved in environment-related policy-making, in the implementation of international agreements or the development of the scientific and technical work required for their implementation at the executive level.

The Specific Objectives are to provide specialised training in the following areas:

- The concept of biodiversity at all organisational levels, particularly with reference to populations, species and ecosystems
- Scientific bases and methods to diagnose and solve problems associated with proper implementation of the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES)
- Administrative, legislative and enforcement issues in CITES implementation
- Biological and trade criteria for listing species on the CITES Appendices
- Significant trade reviews in CITES
- Assessment studies for making non-detriment findings on specimens taken from the wild in CITES
- Techniques for identifying species and specimens subject to CITES controls
- CITES EU provisions: how they work and how they are implemented
- Theoretical and practical aspects of the relationship between economics and the environment

- The study of diversity in space
- Basics of biogeography and chorology
- Techniques for population studies, dispersal models, demography and variation
- Use of Geographic Information Systems to study variation in forestry species, plant cartography and population assessment
- Population biology, conservation and management of CITES animals and plants
- Recovery plans and sustainable management programmes for animals and plants at the international level
- Analysis of the impact of invasive species on biodiversity
- Techniques for germplasm preservation
- Techniques for propagation and study of genetic diversity at the molecular level; in vitro culture techniques; PCR analysis of DNA and RNA
- CBD Programmes and synergy with CITES
- International systems that regulate access to genetic resources and benefit-sharing
- Negotiation systems in multilateral environmental agreements (MEAs)
- Legal aspects of multilateral environmental agreements

3. REGISTRATION

Class Size and Requirements for Admission

This Master's Degree Course offered by the International University of Andalusia is open to 30 graduate students with university degrees. Students holding the following degrees are eligible for this Master's Programme: Engineering (Agricultural, Forestry or Environmental Engineering); Veterinary Science, Biological Science, Environmental Science, Chemistry, Geography and History, Humanities, Education, Law, Policy and International Relations, or university degrees recognised as being equivalent to the former. If it is necessary to establish priorities between applicants, their Curriculum Vitae will be considered.

Application Requirements

Applicants must send the pertinent documentation as required on the application form (available on the University website: www.unia.es). The deadline for applications is 30th October 2009. Applications certified and postmarked within this period will be accepted.

Acceptance and Registration

Once the selection is made, applicants will be personally notified of admission or non-admission to the programme. Those who have applied for a scholarship as well will also be notified accordingly. Upon receipt of notification, applicants admitted must confirm their participation in the programme, fully register and pay the fee for the 60 credits of the programme by 15th December 2009.

Documentation Required

Applicants must provide the following documents:
