Interpretation and implementation of the Convention

Amendment of the Appendices

60. Proposals to amend Appendices I and II

The delegation of Fiji introduced proposal CoP13 Prop. 33, regarding the inclusion of Cheilinus undulatus in Appendix II, co-proposed with Ireland, on behalf of the 25 Member States of the European Union, and the United States of America. They stressed that they were speaking from the perspective of a range State that was also a Small Island Developing State. They noted that they were involved in various conservation activities regarding the species but that, despite these, its population was continuing to decline. The delegation of Palau supported the proposal, stressing the high cultural value of the species in their country. The delegations of Ireland, on behalf of the Member States of the European Union, and the United States discussed the species's vulnerability, habitat, threats and ease of identification. The delegations of Iceland, Indonesia, Kenya and Norway also supported the proposal. The delegation of China did not dispute the biological data in the supporting statement, but drew attention to potential difficulties in controlling trade in specimens of species introduced from the sea. The delegation of the Seychelles opposed the proposal, pointing out that no data had been provided for their region of the Indian Ocean. They were concerned that adoption of the proposal would lead to other reef fish species being listed in the Appendices, and felt that the responsibility for management of these species should be left to other organizations, such as the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO), rather than CITES. The observer from FAO confirmed that their ad hoc Expert Advisory Panel had concluded that the available evidence supported the inclusion of the humphead wrasse based on Annex 2 a. The proposal was accepted.

The delegation of Slovenia with their co-proponent, the delegation of Italy, introduced proposal CoP13 Prop. 35, for the inclusion of Lithophaga lithophaga in Appendix II, on behalf of the Member States of the European Community. The proposal was supported by the delegations of Croatia, Monaco, and Serbia and Montenegro. The observer from FAO reported that the proposal highlighted a genuine problem but stressed that the species was not in danger of extinction in the near future. The FAO Expert Panel considered that an Appendix-II listing would not prevent illegal trade, some of which occurred between Member States of the European Community. These concerns were shared by the delegations of Japan and Norway, and the delegation of Canada, which did not believe the criteria for listing in Appendix II as set out in Resolution Conf. 9.24 (Rev. CoP12) had been met. While wishing their concerns to be recorded, these delegations, noting the wide approval for this proposal within the Committee, did not further oppose it, and it was accepted.

The Chairman directed the Committee to reconsideration of three plant proposals. She reported that the working group charged with trying to combine proposals CoP13 Prop. 40, Prop. 41 and Prop. 42 had failed to reach consensus on a way forward: the three proposals therefore stood separately.

The delegation of Thailand introduced document CoP13 Doc. 60 Addendum 2, an amendment to proposal CoP13 Prop. 40. The delegations of Mexico and Ecuador opposed the amended proposal, citing identification problems and believing the proposal to be premature. The delegations of Malaysia and Switzerland supported it, the latter considering that it would ease the burden placed on importing and exporting countries in issuing permits for hybrids. Seeing that there was no consensus, the Chairman and the delegation of Thailand wished to move to vote on the amended proposal, which was accepted, with 60 votes in favour, 20 against and 11 abstentions (Annex 1).

The delegation of Switzerland then introduced proposal CoP13 Prop. 41, stressing that they believed their proposal was not theoretically difficult to implement and that the acceptance of proposal CoP13 Prop. 40 did not render theirs redundant. They recommended that, if their proposal were accepted, the Plants Committee work on reconciling it with proposal CoP13 Prop. 40. The delegation of Mexico opposed the Swiss proposal for the same reasons they had opposed the Thai proposal and sought clarification over the interrelation between the two. The Secretariat expressed concern that there could be two regimes applying to orchid hybrids and that this might not be practical. The delegation of Switzerland strove to convince the Committee that there was no overlap between their proposal and that from Thailand just accepted. The Chairman of the Plants Committee clarified that the Swiss proposal addressed a different form of trade and was therefore not redundant for consideration. Reluctantly, the delegation of Australia opposed the Swiss proposal, as it did not appear to limit the quantity of orchids implicated, while the Thai proposal did not appear to exclude specimens in flower. On these grounds, they suggested deferring the Swiss proposal until it could be made more supportive of the Thai one. The delegation of the United States fully supported proposal CoP13 Prop. 41, on the grounds that the specimens involved would be readily recognizable. Recognizing some confusion in the Committee, they also clarified that this proposal and the previous proposal did not overlap with regard to the genera Miltonia, Odontoglossum and Oncidium as these were excluded from the annotation agreed by the Committee in accepting the amended proposal CoP13 Prop. 40 but included in the present proposal. However, in order to bring the scope of the present proposal closer into line with the previous proposal, the delegation of the Netherlands, on behalf of the Member States of the European Community, proposed that these three genera be removed from proposal CoP13 Prop. 41.

The Chairman moved to vote on proposal CoP13 Prop. 41, as amended by the proposal from the delegation of the Netherlands, on behalf of the Member States of the European Community. The result was 33 votes in favour, 16 against and 45 abstentions (see Annex 2) and the proposal, amended to exclude the genera Miltonia, Odontoglossum and Oncidium (interspecific hybrids within the genera and intergeneric hybrids), was accepted.

The delegation of Brazil, noted that they had voted in favour but registered their support for other Parties within the region, and their grave concern at the measures taken. They considered that the proposal was unenforceable in practice.

In light of the acceptance of the above two proposals, proposal CoP13 Prop. 42 was withdrawn by the Chairman of the Plants Committee.

Document CoP13 Com. I. 11, relating to proposal CoP13 Prop. 49 to list Aquilaria spp. and Gyrinops spp. in Appendix II, was introduced by the Chairman of the working group established to consider the proposal (United States). They noted that it had been agreed to recommend a capacity-building workshop. The Secretariat suggested addition of prior to the 14th meeting of the Conference of the Parties at the end of paragraph a), in response to a query from the delegation of Qatar regarding timing. The document was accepted, as amended.

The session was closed at 21h00.
